

TO HIS SLEEP ETERNAL

Ex-Governor Matthews Crosses the Dark River.

PARALYSIS PROVES FATAL.

The Distinguished Hoosier Orator Made a Plucky Fight Against the Grim Destroyer, but Succumbed in Unequal Contest.

Wingate, Ind., Aug. 29.—At 6:30 a. m., at the quiet Meharry homestead, where he was immediately after his sudden affliction with paralysis, ex-Governor Claude Matthews passed away peacefully, surrounded by his wife and all the members of his family.

There was prayer service, accompanied by the singing of hymns at the bedside of the dying governor. Mrs. Matthews was very much affected and stated that she would give anything in the world if her husband would manifest by a single word his faith in Jesus.

About 3 a. m. the minister in the course of the services asked the dying man if he believed in Jesus. The answer, as plainly as any one could articulate it, was "Yes."

The three physicians regarded this answer as miraculous, as all agreed that the particular part of the brain affected by the paralysis was that governing speech, and that the ex-governor probably never would have talked had he lived. It was the only word he spoke after he was stricken. He immediately lapsed into a profound coma from which he did not recover before he passed away. Mrs. Matthews will start from Wingate at once with the remains of her husband.

The party will go direct to Hazel Bluff, the home of the dead ex-governor.

Out of respect to the expressed wish of ex-Governor Matthews the body will not be taken to Indianapolis to lie in state at the capitol.

Governor Mount and staff will attend the funeral at Clinton, and a special train will leave Indianapolis Wednesday morning to carry state officials and others.

Governor Matthews was born in Bath county, Ky., Dec. 14, 1845. He left Kentucky in 1868 and settled in Vermillion county, Ind., where he had a farm of 2,000 acres. He organized the Indiana Short Horn Breeders' association and was one of the founders of the National Association of Short Horn Cattle Breeders of the United States and Canada.

Although always having a strong predilection for politics, Mr. Matthews rarely sought office. He served a term in the legislature in 1876. In 1890 he was nominated and elected secretary of state and in 1892 was chosen governor.

Governor Matthews was related through his mother to some of the best families of Virginia and Kentucky. He was the son of Thomas A. Matthews and Eliza A. Fletcher. His maternal great-grandfather, General Thomas Jefferson Fletcher, was an officer in the United States army of 1812. After his term as governor expired Mr. Matthews retired to his home in Vermillion county.

In 1896 the friends of Mr. Matthews resolved to make him a conspicuous candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. The state convention was enthusiastically in favor of his nomination by the national Democratic convention which met in Chicago in July, 1896.

Mr. Matthews endorsed the action of the national Democracy and immediately began a most brilliant canvass for Bryan and Sewall. He never faltered for an instant, but continued actively at work until the polls were closed in November of that year.

In January, 1898, he married Martha R. Whitcomb, daughter of the late James Whitcomb, who was governor of Indiana from 1848 to 1849, and was afterward United States senator from this state. Mr. Matthews attained wide celebrity while governor by driving out the Roby gamblers.

Jeffers, who is a minister of the Lutheran church, was spending his vacation in Shippensburg with his wife's father, George Davidson. Friday he and his wife and child, while on a walk in the country, found what they thought were mushrooms. They gathered a number and ate them. Instead of mushrooms they were toadstools.

Not Forced to Full Speed.

Portland, Or., Aug. 29.—The torpedo boat Davis, which is being constructed at the Wolf & Sewickley iron works, was given a preliminary trial on the Willamette river. No effort was made to force the craft up to the required speed, 22½ knots, but it is announced that the trial was satisfactory.

The Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Company, in its circular for the week, has the following:

The sales have continued about the same the past week in quantity and price. The sales are mostly confined to the manufacturers' buyers, and are being shipped. The speculators are of the opinion that the prospects of the growing crop will have a tendency to weaken prices, and they will not carry heavy stocks, but will keep close to shore until the new crop is ready for market.

There has been a strong competition for the colory lugs and the lower grades, and the prices have been some higher, while the best grades of leaf have remained about the same, with no advance. They are not selling in proportion to the medium and low grades, and it is a question if the manufacturers will need a sufficient quantity of these best grades to advance prices very materially before the new crop is marketed.

There are a few buyers who still argue that the shortage of the 1897 crop will cause a sufficient scarcity to advance prices, but as the season is so far advanced we can not see much opportunity for any large advance, and it is very dangerous to carry old stock over into the new shipments.

The crop is growing out nicely, and if the weather is favorable for cutting and curing we may expect one of the best crops grown for years.

"SIGNING OF THE PROTOCOL."

Photos of the Noted Personages As the Historic Document Was Signed.

"The Signing of the Protocol" is the name of a large photograph taken by Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston at the White House on Friday, August 19th. The group formed just as they were placed when that document which demanded cessation of hostilities between the United States and Cuba, received the signatures of Secretary Day and Ambassador Cambon.

Miss Johnston secured two views, one with Mr. Day at the table in the act of affixing his signature and the other with Monsieur Cambon writing his name.

So important was it to have this historic picture preserved for future reference that Secretary Day returned from Atlantic City, recalled by telegraph, and Minister Cambon relinquished going to New York to witness the naval parade.

The President and all officials who witnessed the signing formed part of this group.

Miss Johnston, the artist, is a relative of Marie Decca, the noted singer.

FIRE INSURANCE—Pickett & Respees, successors to Duley & Baldwin.

The pain that sometimes strikes a man at the most inopportune moment is due to indigestion. It may come in the midst of a dinner and make the feast a mockery. It is a reminder that he may not eat what he chooses, nor when he chooses. He is a slave to the weakness of his stomach. A man's health and strength depends on his digestion. Remove the obstruction by taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are a positive cure for constipation and its attendant ills—headaches, sour stomach, flatulence, dizziness, biliousness and "heart-burn." The "Pellets" are very gentle in their action. They simply assist nature. They give no violent wrench to the system. They cause no pain, nor griping.
